Your invitation to participate

May 2010

AGL Warmth in Winter

Since 2004, AGL Warmth in Winter has made a contribution to support homeless Australians by helping fund a portion of the winter energy bills of emergency accommodation services in NSW, ACT, VIC, SA and QLD.

Responding to climate change has fast become a growing priority for us all. By assisting a number of these services to make ongoing reductions to their year-round energy consumption, we are also helping to fund energy audits and the implementation of energy efficient measures in these organisations.

Since Warmth in Winter began, AGL has been proud to contribute to the winter energy costs of over 400 emergency accommodation services and funding more than 900,000 warm winter nights for homeless Australians. To date, we have assisted over 43 services to make ongoing year-round energy savings and thus cut their emissions, helping to reduce their overall impact on the environment.

AGL is pleased to invite applications to participate in Warmth in Winter 2010.

What is AGL Warmth in Winter?

AGL Warmth in Winter is part of AGL's Energy for Life corporate responsibility program, committed to encouraging a focus on energy efficiency across the community. We place special emphasis on supporting and assisting vulnerable Australians.

AGL Warmth in Winter seeks to help to alleviate the important social issue of homelessness and assist homeless services to be more energy efficient by:

1. Funding a proportion of the winter gas and/or electricity bills for overnight emergency or crisis accommodation services in NSW, ACT, VIC, SA and QLD.

This funding is made via a cheque payment direct to the service, the amount of which is based on their 2009 winter energy bills.

2. Funding and delivering a number of energy audits for selected services to help them achieve ongoing, year-round energy savings, including funding to implement efficiency measures, such as energy efficient appliances, occupancy sensors on lighting and window shading.

AGL is currently providing energy audits for five emergency accommodation services in the ACT, NSW, QLD and SA. The services selected for the energy audits will also receive funding for their winter energy bills.

Who is eligible for funding?

To be eligible for participation in AGL Warmth in Winter 2010, applicants should:

1. Be an overnight emergency or crisis accommodation service based in NSW, ACT, VIC, SA and QLD for people experiencing homelessness. An overnight emergency or crisis accommodation service is defined as:

"Supported accommodation for periods of generally not more than 3 months (short term) and for persons needing immediate short-term accommodation".¹

2. Have Deductible Gift Recipient (DGR) status as a Registered Charity with the Australian Taxation Office.
3. Provide copies of the service's winter energy bills for:
 - June, July and August 2009 for verification purposes (for services in NSW, VIC, SA ACT); or
 - Any three consecutive months in 2009 or 2010 (for services in QLD).

Submit your application before 5.00pm AEST, Friday 28 May 2010.

Please note that both elements of AGL Warmth in Winter are open to all eligible overnight emergency or crisis accommodation services regardless of its energy provider.

How does AGL assess and prioritise applications?

Applications received by 5.00pm AEST Friday 28 May 2010 will be assessed by AGL.

Notification to all AGL Warmth in Winter applicants, cheque delivery and energy audit offers will take place in September/October 2010.

For the last six years, AGL has been able to fund a significant proportion of all eligible applications and would like to continue a similar level of support in 2010.

However, given the growing awareness of AGL Warmth in Winter, and the expected yearly increase in applications, in the event that AGL is unable to make a contribution to all applicants, AGL will be giving greater priority to smaller organisations that tend to receive less financial support and to those organisations that have not been part of AGL Warmth in Winter in previous years.

Part 3: Expression of interest to receive an energy audit

How about reducing your emergency accommodation service's energy spend?

AGL is seeking to offer a number of energy audits to assist selected services to make ongoing year round savings on their energy bills and reduce their greenhouse gas emissions.

Experienced qualified energy auditors identify opportunities within emergency or crisis accommodation services to reduce energy consumption and provide assistance to implement changes – such as replacing incandescent globes with compact fluorescent globes, installing occupancy sensors on lighting, adjusting fridge and freezer temperatures and installing shade cloth or blinds.

How it works

If you are selected to receive an energy audit:

- You will be asked to provide some baseline pre-audit information (complete a checklist on energy use at your organisation, and copies of energy bills for the previous 12 month period).
- AGL will provide a qualified energy audit contractor who will contact you and arrange a visit of the service at a suitable time.
- This visit will result in a list of recommended changes to your facility that could assist in reducing energy consumption.
- The auditor will then work with you to implement these energy efficient changes and potential implementation of energy efficient appliances, which are funded by AGL
- AGL will request copies of your energy bills 12 months following the audit so that we can measure the effectiveness of the changes implemented within your organisation.

Expression of interest

If your emergency or crisis accommodation service was selected to receive funding from AGL Warmth in Winter 2010, would you be interested in receiving an energy audit, to help find ways to increase your facility's energy efficiency?

Yes*

No

*If yes, please indicate who manages your property and whether you will need to get approval to use AGL contractors.
