Other

Large gas installations can take a variable amount of time to set up, pending load and pressure required. It is advised that the customer submit an application to AGL as soon as possible to start the process. All installation timeframes are the responsibility of the Network planner and AGL will assist where possible. However, AGL will take no responsibility for work completion timeframes advised by third parties.

AGL will take each new gas installation on a case by case basis and this process may vary depending on customer requirements.
