

Open invitation to community information session.

You're invited to a presentation on BTEX findings.

Government agencies recently released the results of their investigations into BTEX detections at the Waukivory Pilot Project site, concluding that there is no evidence of harm to the environment or pollution of waters.

Assessments have also been conducted by independent environmental science consultants EnRiskS on behalf of AGL. Jackie Wright, Director of EnRiskS, evaluated the potential impact of BTEX on human health and the environment at Waukivory. She compared the detection levels to other everyday sources of BTEX and set guidelines that would prompt AGL to further action.

Jackie Wright will be presenting her findings on BTEX to the community in a public information session next week.

We look forward to seeing you there. If you have any questions about the information session or the Gloucester Gas Project, please contact Community Relations Manager, Karyn Looby, on klooby@agl.com.au or 1300 799 716.
